ELEVATED

LOW — CRITICAL

Scored on TAM-C's 1 to 5 risk method. Unchanged, with supply chain risk driving the score.

01 Top analytical pieces

NARCO-TERRORISM — HIGH

Sinaloa succession turns violent

A split inside the [redacted] leadership drove targeted killings and road blockades around Culiacán. Our Mexico desk expects violence to spread along Highway 15 toward Sonora in coming weeks.

CYBERSECURITY — ELEVATED

Ransomware wave hits freight brokers

A [redacted] affiliate claimed attacks on five freight brokers in the US and Mexico, leaking shipment schedules. Leaked routes could help cargo theft crews target specific loads on the road.

SOURCE · TAM-C CYBER TEAM

SUPPLY CHAIN — MODERATE

Freight rail theft climbs in Puebla

Gangs linked to [redacted] stopped freight trains near Puebla to loot cars of auto parts and electronics. Rail operators added escorts on some segments, but incidents rose for a fourth week.

Military and law enforcement operations	▼ Easing	MODERATE

03 Analyst recommendations

01 Review cross-border shipments routed through Sinaloa and Sonora for the next month.

02 Ask freight brokers to confirm whether your shipment data appeared in leaked files.

03 Add escorts or tracking to high-value loads moving by rail through central Mexico.
